MANIAC POLL

Each month there will be a "Maniac poll". This poll will be posted online. Please take a few moments to answer this poll. I will post the results in the next newsletter.

This month's question: How many gels do you typically take during a marathon?

Please vote online between now and June 10: <http://tinyurl.com/MMpoll2014d>

Last month's question: Are you more likely to run a marathon that has a Maniac for a race director?

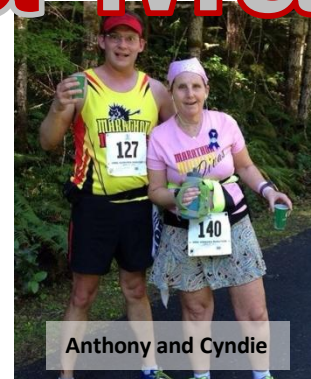

To most Maniacs it doesn't matter if the RD is a Maniac or not (64%). Thanks for voting!

FROM THE EDITOR...

April was a very special month for me. After nearly 10 years of running marathons, I finally ran the Boston Marathon. Truly one of the most memorable experiences of my running career. In addition I ran a marathon in a tornado watch (Garmin Marathon) and enjoyed a few of my favorite Pacific Northwest marathons (Yakima and Vernonia). I hope you are all having a great Spring running season!

Happy Running!

RHETORICAL REVELATIONS AND W(RITES)... FROM THE RAMBUNCTIOUS REV

I was going to tell you about two more Hall of Famers, Prez, but I haven't caught them yet, sigh, my fault. Well, I think it is my fault, but... well just between you and me, Prez, the truth is I don't think we're on the same planet as them, never mind catching them at the same races. This government guy I talked to told me to keep our suspicions hush hush for now, so, just between you and me, given Angela Tortorice's and Deo's accomplishments, we are pretty sure ... they are aliens. No really. See, the Angela "lady" told me, "Oh well, I was going to do 51 marathons, but I did 129 instead." Who says stuff like that? And gosh, Prez, you know Deo. Aliens, Prez, it is the only explanation that's reasonable. I'll get back to you after a bit more research, that is, if "Buzz" let's me.

Meanwhile, something happened this month by an actual human who I know isn't green or anything, because we are actually identical twins, Chuck Marathonjunkie Engle and I. Here's two pictures of us, mid-run, so you can see.

Chuck:

And me.

The similarities are startling, aren't they?

Since we were three, I haven't ever much caught him either, because that's when he became so garsh darn speedy. While I mix some golf in between my handfuls of marathons, Chuck can't putt worth a gel block, so he runs more. And more. And then he runs more. Even named his car and his dog, "Runmore." When he couldn't figure out how people hacked into his computer accounts so easily, I had to tell him, "Chuck, change your password". So he did. Now it's "runmorr." Hey, Brother is dedicated.

Now, I know you have other friends who have run 300 marathons. Each one is amazing really: ligaments work smoothly, hearts beat steadily, lungs let them run AND talk simultaneously, goofy athletic stuff like that. Plus they sure know their Gu. So they deserve their kudos entirely, indeed.

What good ol' Chuck did this month was combine the maniacal bit with success in another category we advertise, trumpet, and repeat, as unnecessary in the world of Maniacs. But Chuck has made it interesting this month: time. Not the "getting older" sort of time; the "chip time" sort of time.

Background: once Chuck broke 3 hours in a marathon, he liked it! (First crack at the finish line bagels, I guess.) So, he did it again. And again, and again, and amazingly again, and, then ---sit down---then another 96 times. Incomprehensible to me, 100 marathons under 3 hours. Goodness sakes, Prez, after 10 years in here, I'm just reaching 80 marathons, on pokeyfeet, and even I get a "Wow, that's absurd!" from distinguished members in my community. But Mr. Avatar-on-Winged-Foot knocked out 100 marathons under 3 hours each??? That's an INCREDIBLE story, even among Maniacs.

Except it isn't the whole story. A good Maniac story always has another twist.

He is at 300. Three Hundred. That is, in April, 2014, Chuck Engle reached 300 sub-three-hour marathons.

Next time I see Buzz I'm going to suggest that, as whole basketball teams get to go to the White House, maybe he ought to arrange for Chuck to get some fancy crême brulee there one of these days.

Luvya,
Rev
